The population movement report is one of seven annual statistical reports regularly produced by the Research Unit. Each correctional facility of the Department of Correction submits weekly admission and release reports describing in detail each offender move into or out of that facility. This annual movement report is a compilation of all admissions and releases during 1981. It presents information by type of admission and release including: new court commitments, paroles, returns or parole violations, discharges, escapes, deaths, transfers to other correctional facilities, both in state and out of state, and trips to hospitals and courts.

This report consists primarily of sixteen tables that describe the various movement types. The first table summarizes changes in population from January 1, 1981 to December 31, 1981. The next two tables summarize all types of admissions and releases. The remaining thirteen tables consider specific types of moves in detail. Each table is broken down by specific institution or institutional group.

Offenders can be received into an institution in any one of a number of ways. Offenders can be committed by the courts to Walpole, Concord, or Framingham. Only at the time that the offender arrives at that institution is the commitment registered. During 1981 and for several years previous to that, it was often the case that after sentencing an offender would be placed at a House of Correction, while awaiting space at a DOC facility. These offenders are not counted as commitments until they actually arrive at the institution of commitment. Offenders can also arrive from another institution to begin serving a new sentence, having finished a first sentence and beginning a second or third sentence. These are "from and after", "B" and "C" sentences. Generally an offender would be paroled or discharged from the initial sentence and then committed on a second sentence.

Offenders can be admitted in ways that are not directly related to the beginning of a new sentence. Offenders who have violated some condition of their parole can be returned as a parole violator to continue serving the sentence on which they were released.

Offenders can also be returned from outside releases of short duration such as trips to courts or hospitals or be returned from escape. Offenders can also be transferred from other correctional authorities including Houses of Correction, which are county facilities, federal prison authorities, other state prison authorities or sheriffs.

Offenders can be released by the authority of the Parole Board, by finishing serving the maximum of their sentence or having their sentence changed by the courts. Such paroles and releases can be to the community, to another prison authority, or to another sentence. Offenders can also be released on a short term basis to hospitals or courts. Offenders can also be released because of death during their incarceration or by escaping from confinement.

The most numerous type of movement is a transfer from one facility within the Department to another. Because the Department has facilities of so many different security levels it is quite common for an offender to be placed in an initial setting, the commitment institution, and then to be placed into a number of lower security settings as that offender progresses through the Department. Such inter-institutional transfers are generally from a higher security setting to a lower security but can sometimes be from a lower security setting to a higher security setting. Each time a movement of this type occurs, one institution records an admission and another institution records a release.

When considering numbers of admissions and releases, then this report does a great deal more than to tabulate the number of offenders admitted from the courts and released by being paroled or terminating their sentences. This report includes information on all types of admissions and releases to all of the institutions in the department and as such is a valuable statistical description of the flow of offenders through the correctional system of Massachusetts.

Highlights of 1981 Movements

In this section some of the more important characteristics of population movements during 1981 will be discussed. More complete information can be found by consulting individual tables.

Population Changes. At the beginning of 1981 the population of all Massachusetts Department of Correction facilities was 3231; at the end of 1981 the population was 3777.¹ This represents an increase of 546 individuals or 17% during a single year and represents an increase of 36% from the population at the beginning of 1980. The first table summarizes all movements of offenders and demonstrates that the population increase during ¹This figure of 3777 does not include 7 individuals sentenced to the Department who are awaiting places, 22 women awaiting trial at MCI-Framingham or any Bridgewater placements.

1981 is related to a larger number of admissions than releases.

Admissions. There was a total of 9,267 admission movements of all types into institutions during 1981. This represents a 26 percent increase over the number of such movements in 1980. The number of returns on parole violations in 1981 was 354, an 8 percent decrease from the previous year. There were 6,660 transfers among Department of Correction facilities, a 28 percent increase from the previous year. There was a 39 percent increase in the number of new court commitments, from 1,208 in 1980 to 1,678 in 1981. (This does not include seven individuals awaiting placement in a DOC facility). There was a 44 percent decrease in the number of individuals received on a from and after sentence, from 32 in 1980 to 18 in 1981. There was a 26 percent increase in the number of returns from escape as compared to the previous year with 169 returns from escape in 1980 and 213 in 1981.

Releases. There were 8,721 movements out of institutions during 1981, a 25 percent increase from the previous year. A large increase came in inter-institutional transfers, — a thirty percent increase in one year. The number of paroles remained about the same (818 in 1980 vs. 825 in 1981) as did the number of transfers to Houses of Correction

(65 in 1980 vs. 60 in 1981). There were 6 deaths in Department of Correction facilities during the year. There was one death by homicide, two by suicide, and three by natural causes. There was a 36 percent increase in the number of escapes from the previous year with 176 during 1980 compared to 239 in 1981.

Court Commitments. There were 1,678 new court commitments during 1981, a 39 percent increase from 1980, Walpole commitments increased by 28 percent, Concord commitments increased by 40 percent and Framingham commitments increased by 61 percent from 1980. The 1,678 figure does not include seven individuals sentenced to the Department but in a house of correction awaiting initial placement in the Department.

Institutional Transfers. There was a large increase in inter-institutional transfers from 1980 to 1981. Two institutions, Norfolk and Concord account for 38 percent of the transfers sent out. Concord and Walpole are the largest receivers of institutional transfers.

Hospital Transfers. Offenders needing hospital care can be treated at Lemuel Shattuck, a Department of Correction hospital, or other community hospitals.

There were 354 releases to Lemuel Shattuck Hospital in 1981 and 372 returns from Lemuel Shattuck.

There were 127 releases to non-Department of Correction Hospitals. Tufts New England Medical Center, Emerson, and Framingham Union Hospital received the most releases. Additionally there were 119 returns from other hospitals. Emerson, Tufts New England Medical Center, and Framingham Union received the most returns.

Transfers to Houses of Correction. Four types of movements to and from houses of correction are considered in the tables of the report. The first is a Department of Correction inmate transferring to a county institution. There were 60 such transfers in 1981. Hampden County received the largest number of transfers (N=13) during 1981. The second type is a Department of Correction inmate returning from a county facility. There were 29 such returns in 1981, a 37 percent decrease from 1980. The majority (62%) of these returns were to Concord. The third type of move is a county inmate transferring to a Department of Correction facility. There were 22 such admissions in 1981, an increase from 17 in 1980. The fourth type of move is releases of Department of Correction inmates to a county facility on a from and after sentence. There were 32 such releases in 1981, which is approximately the same as 1980. Most of the releases were to Deer Island (N=11).

Movements to Other States. There were 96 transfers from Department of Correction facilities to prison in other states. This includes 85 Department of Correction inmates and 12 non-Department of Correction inmates transferred. Most of these offenders (88%) were transferred from Walpole, Concord, and Norfolk. Almost three-fourths of these offenders were transferred to other New England states. There were 104 returns from other states during 1981. This included 79 Department of Correction offenders and 25 non-Department of Correction offenders being admitted from an out of state prison. Most of these offenders (86%) were admitted to Walpole, Concord, or Norfolk and most (76%) were admitted from other New England states.
